

DOORS OF FIFTEEN SALOONS CLOSED

licenses Expired at 11 O'clock Last Night and Seymour is Made Temporarily "Dry."

NOTICES HAVE BEEN POSTED

Commissioners Will Likely Grant Licenses Monday and Drink Emporiums Will Resume Business.

Liquor, liquor everywhere and not drop to drink. This is the situation in Seymour where the fifteen saloons closed their doors at 11 o'clock last night to remain out of business until they can get their licenses renewed. The county commissioners will meet in regular session next Monday and it is thought that they will take the matter up as soon as the session convenes as the renewal of the licenses is routine business. In the meantime, however, the saloons are prohibited from selling any liquor at all and Seymour is the same as a "dry" town.

Many of the saloonists have placed notices in their windows that their places of business are closed until next Monday. Several of the proprietors are taking advantage of the vacation and are having the interior of their saloons repainted and redecorated, and making other improvements which could not be done conveniently during the regular business hours.

The temporary closing of the saloons at this time is due to an oversight of the owners that their licenses would expire before the county commissioners would meet. All of the licenses were granted at the same time, when the county became "wet" under the Proctor law and were dated May 2, 1911. This would make them expire at the closing hour last night.

If the proper application had been made at the April term of the commissioners' court the licenses could have been granted and the saloons could have continued in business. Under the law the county commissioners can not grant a liquor license except at their regular meeting and this evening any licenses being issued until the meeting at the commissioners' court next Monday. Should the commissioners, for any person, not take the matter up until later in the week, the saloons would remain closed until the licenses are granted.

This is the first time that Seymour has been without saloons since the county was "dry" under the local option law.

EYE IS REMOVED

Thomas Phillips Undergoes Operation as Result of Accident.

Word has been received here that Thomas Phillips, who was struck in the eye recently by a wire while stretching a clothes line, underwent an operation at Cincinnati and that his injured eye was removed.

Phillips was repairing a clothes line at his home in this city and while stretching the wire it broke and one of the ends pierced his eye ball. It was feared that he might lose the sight of both eyes and he went to Cincinnati for treatment. He is improving since the operation and the sight of his other eye will be saved.

PAYS DEBT OF TWO DOLLARS WHICH STOOD FOR 40 YEARS Old Account For Sweet Potato Plants Weighs Heavily Upon Mind of Seymour Lady.

Declaring that she was conscious stricken over her failure and neglect to pay a small bill of two dollars for sweet potato plants which her first husband purchased forty years ago, Samuel Newby, of this city, received a letter recently from a lady living in Seymour that she desired to settle the account and relieve her mind of the burden.

Mr. Newby, who sold the plants, had long since forgotten about the old account until his attention was called to it by the letter. Following the request in the letter he presented his bill this morning and the two dollars were paid. The lady said that she had thought a great deal about the long standing debt and that it had caused her considerable worry. Since the plants were delivered forty years ago the lady's first husband, who considered them has died. She was married a second time, but has been a widow for several years.

INTEREST GROWS IN BOYS' CAMPAIGN

Rev. A. W. Conner Delivers His Third Excellent Lecture Before a Large Audience.

BIG BANQUET ON SATURDAY.

"Rex Van Wonex" Or "Worst Boy In Town" Will Be Subject This Evening.

The age of adolescence is the critical period of a boy's life and is the time when he should be given close attention. This was the principal thought last night of the third address of the Rev. A. W. Conner who is conducting a boy's campaign in this city.

The speaker pointed out that it was during this period of the boy's life, from fifteen to twenty-one years of age, that he is most easily influenced for good or bad, and is the time when he most needed the companionship of the right kind of friends. His surroundings should be kept wholesome and free from evil for it is at this age that a larger number make a decision for right than at any other time in their lives. During the age of adolescence the boy needs the comradeship of his father as he can be of great influence in giving the right sort of advice and in shaping the future life of the son.

During this period of a boy's life he must encounter both uplifting and degrading influences. The five forces which tend to make a boy's life better are the home, school, church, government and business. In the home he is taught obedience; in the school he receives mental training; from church he finds the principles of righteousness; from the government he learns justice; and in business he gains interdependence. The downward forces tend to pull against the influences for a better life and it is necessary that the latter be combined in order that the best results be obtained.

The fourth address will be given this evening at the M. E. church and the subject will be "Rex Van Wonex" or "The Worst Boy In Town." This is regarded as Mr. Conner's strongest lecture and has been highly commended wherever it has been given. A free will silver offering will be taken at the door although no admission will be charged.

Arrangements are being completed for the boys' banquet Saturday afternoon and the present indications are that it will be attended by one of the largest gatherings of boys ever assembled in this city.

The chorus choir of the First Baptist church will rehearse at the church at 7:30 Saturday night instead of Friday, this week, on account of Dr. Conner's meetings. All the members please take notice and be on time Saturday.

STATE AID IS WITHDRAWN IN "WHITECAPPING" CASES

Governor Makes Announcement After Conference With Attorneys He Employed for Bloomington Trials.

Indianapolis, May 2.—Following a conference with J. F. Regester, former prosecutor of Monroe County, and Rufus East, both attorneys for the state of Indiana in the "whitecapping" cases at Bloomington, Governor Marshall announced yesterday afternoon that it had been decided to withdraw the state support from the prosecutions of the three remaining members of the alleged "whitecapping" gang. The action was taken, the Governor said, because the attorneys advised it.

The state retained Mr. Regester, Mr. East and Joseph E. Henley in the trials of four of the seven alleged "whitecappers." The result of the four trials was two convictions, a "hung" jury and an acquittal. The attorneys for the Governor said that the resentment in Monroe County had subsided to a great extent and that the problem of obtaining convictions of the remaining alleged "whitecappers" now should rest on the county authorities.

Attorney fees paid by the state in the famous cases will approximate $3,000. The Governor said he believed the practice of "whitecapping" had been effectually curbed in Monroe county.

ISMA ESCAPES CONTEMPT Declared Immune From Civil Process Because of Senate Subpena.

Washington, May 2.—J. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the International Mercantile Marine, and C. H. Lightoller and J. G. Boxhall, officers of the Titanic, were immune from the subpoenas issued by the District of Columbia Supreme Court requiring their presence to testify in a civil action brought by Mrs. George Robins of New York, and contempt proceedings will not be instituted against them, it is declared. The three men were served with summonses yesterday, but went to New York after engaging counsel to represent them. Contempt proceedings were threatened, but it developed today that, because the Englishmen were under subpoena from the United States Senate, no other process could be served upon them for a period of twenty-four hours after their release by the Senate committee.

HEAVY DAMAGE IN SOUTHERN FLOOD

250,000 People Rush to Points of Safety When Levee in Louisiana Breaks.

LOSS WILL REACH MILLIONS.

Many Are Made Homeless and Plantations Are Ruined by The Flood Waters.

Torras, La., May 2.—Women screaming and men yelling, as they hurried into their homes and seized their children and valuables, in their made effort to reach places of safety, and the stampeding of animals turned loose by their owners to seek places of safety, were some of the chaotic conditions that prevailed in Torras, last night, when the alarm was sounded that the levee at the junction of the Old and Mississippi rivers had given way to the mighty pressure of the flood waters. Although it had been known that several weak spots had developed where the break occurred, little attention had been paid to this by the citizens of Torras, and they were caught unprepared. Within a few minutes after the break had become known the townspeople were thrown into a panic.

Before the streets were entirely submerged a majority of the inhabitants had reached places of safety. Three hundred women and children were placed aboard a freight train which were taken to a point below there.

No loss of life has been reported, but it is feared some fatalities may occur in the interior, as the water is rushing through the country so rapidly that sufficient warning may not have reached those living in districts remote from wire communication.

Millions of dollars of loss will be caused by the devastation of some of the most valuable farms and plantations in the state, it is feared, by this new crevasse.

Eleven parishes with a total population of a quarter of a million will be inundated by the new break and the people driven from their homes.

Food supplies have been massed near Torras by the government in anticipation of a break here and those in charge of the work are preparing to give relief to forty thousand people in this vicinity.

TRACTION MEN DISCUSS NINE HOUR LAW TODAY.

Claim Motormen and Conductors Are Exempted From Rule of Steam Lines.

Indiana electric railways, at a hearing before the interstate commerce commission at Washington today, will insist that motormen and conductors on interurban lines do not come within the provisions of the nine hour service law, applying to those engaged in the despatching of trains. To what extent the nine hour law applies to trainmen who receive or transmit orders will be discussed before the commission at the hearing.

The question as to which provision of the hours of service act applies to motormen and conductors has arisen because their duties are somewhat mixed. Indiana and elsewhere on electric lines it has been considered that the men operating the electric cars are trainmen, and that their service is governed by the sixteen-hour law, applying to trainmen. However, motormen and conductors, out with the cars, keep in touch with the dispatcher over the telephone, and receive orders from the dispatcher regarding the movements of their car. Under the arrangements in Indiana, both motorman and conductor participate in the receipt of orders. About two years ago, following conferences of the Indiana railroad commission and electric railway men, an order was issued prescribing the method of dispatching on interurban roads.

W. G. Irwin, president of the I. C. & S., was present at the hearing.

THREATEN STRIKE IS BROUGHT BEFORE BOARD.

Railroads Are Given Hearing Regarding the Appraisal of Properties.

Members of the state board of tax commissioners are learning from letters received from county assessors that the board's appraisal last year of improvements to right of way on steam and electric railroad property varies little from the county's appraisal of similar property in the counties affected.

The valuation of this class of property is made from personal inspection by members of the board, and to see how the valuation was regarded by the county assessing authorities, circular letters were sent out asking the opinion of the county assessors. In about 90 per cent of the counties reporting, the board's appraisal was virtually the same as the county's appraisal of corresponding property.

The threatened strike of locomotive engineers on the trunk lines east of the Mississippi river has entered into consideration by the board of the appraisal of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern property. The point was raised by F. J. Griffith, of Baltimore, tax agent of the road, who said that if the demands of the engineers were allowed it would increase the operating cost of the road $1,300,000 a year.

The increase in the cost of maintenance and operation, and the refusal of the interstate commerce commission and state railroad commissions of permission to increase freight rates, Mr. Griffith said, had resulted in such a large increase in the cost of railroad operation that railroading from the owners' standpoint, was a very unsatisfactory business. On the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern, he said, the operating maintenance expense had increased during the last year from 74 per cent to 82 per cent of the gross earnings.

SCALES AND CRUSTS ON SKIN

Caused by Eczema and Adding to Its Horrors.

Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

The thick, hard crusts or scales that accompany nearly all kinds of skin diseases not only cover the surface but are so irritating that they add greatly to the suffering of the patient.

Alcoholic washes and ordinary ointments cannot penetrate these, but treatment with our new skin remedy, Saxon Salve, not only removes them painlessly but quiets the itching and burning. It also keeps the inflamed skin soft and comfortable and banishes the eruption, bringing the skin back to its normal healthy condition. Saxon Salve is mild enough for a children's remedy, yet is equally satisfactory for grown persons.

Try Saxon Salve if you have a skin disease of any kind—if you are not satisfied we give back your money. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

PROPOSED NEW LAW WOULD AFFECT POSTAL CLERKS HERE

If Eight-Hour Schedule Is Adopted Several Additional Employees Would Be Necessary.

A bill which is of much interest to the employees of the local postoffice providing that postal clerks and city carriers of first and second class offices shall not be required to work more than eight hours per day provided that the eight hours shall not extend over a longer period than ten consecutive hours has been passed by the lower house of congress. The bill will be taken up by the senate in the near future.

The new bill has the following provisions:

"That on and after July first next, letter carriers in the City Delivery Service and clerks in first and second class postoffices shall be required to work not more than eight hours a day; Provided, That the eight hours of service shall not extend over a longer period than ten consecutive hours, and the schedule of duty of the employees shall be regulated accordingly.

"That in cases of emergency, or if the needs of the service require, letter carriers in the City Delivery Service and clerks in first and second class postoffices can be required to work in excess of eight hours a day, and for such additional service they shall be paid extra in proportion to their salaries as fixed by law."

"That should be the needs of the service require the employment on Sunday of letter carriers in the City Delivery Service and clerks in first and second class postoffices the employees who are required and ordered to perform Sunday work shall be allowed compensatory time on one of the six days following the Sunday on which they perform such service."

Should the bill become a law it will be necessary to have some additional employees at the local office, as the present force would be unable to handle the mail under the eight hour schedule. It would be necessary to employ one new clerk and additional auxiliary service of two hours daily for the collection of the evening and Sunday mails. The carriers at the present time are on duty from 6:50 a. m. and if they were not required to work more than eight hours, their day would be completed before the hour for the evening collections.

FORMER JACKSON COUNTY MAN IS ARMY DESERTER.

Jacob Rich Arrested in Indianapolis For Leaving Troops After Seven Months' Service.

Jacob Rich, a former Jackson county man, and a son of George W. Rich, of Driftwood township, has been arrested in Indianapolis upon the charge of deserting the United States Army. He enlisted shortly after he left this county six years ago. His desertion, he declares, was due to homesickness for his wife and children in Indianapolis.

The Daily News, of Champaign, Illinois gives the following account:

"Charged with desertion from the United States Army more than four years ago and claiming that he enlisted in the twin cities then because of desperation due to lack of work, Jacob S. Rich of 967 Elm street, Indianapolis, Ind., is now a federal prisoner."

His desertion was due to the fact that he was homesick and wished to return to his wife and two children, in Indianapolis. He must return to the army to serve the remainder of the term for which he enlisted, and serve without pay and with the possibility of a term in the guardhouse.

Rich was at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., a private. He had been at the fort seven months, and he had enlisted for three years. He was arrested by detectives Duncan and Simon at the request of the officers at the Indianapolis recruiting station."

On April 9 Cleve Cutshall traded a horse to William Murphree for two mules and on April 11 Mr. Cutshall came back with the mules and wanted to "rueback" with Murphree. Mr. Murphree refused, and then Mr. Cutshall sought the advice of G. V. Cain, deputy prosecutor, and the result was Mr. Murphree was arrested for trading a bull heaving roarer mule. The case was tried before Judge Wolf and a jury of twelve men. The jury deliberated almost two hours, and brought in a verdict, "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty and fix his punishment of a fine of one cent." L. A. Cooperider, foreman. It was some consolation, at least to the defendant, that he saved $24.99, as the jury could have fined him $25.00 and sent him to jail. The case will likely be appealed to the circuit court.—Scott County Journal.

RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

Doctors Could Not Help Mrs. Templeton—Regained Health through Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Hooper, Nebraska.—"I am very glad to tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me. For five years I suffered from female troubles so I was scarcely able to do my work. I took doctors' medicines and used local treatments but was not helped. I had such awful bearing down pains and my back was so weak I could hardly walk and could not ride. I often had to sit up nights to sleep and my friends thought I could not live long. At my request my husband got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I commenced to take it. By the time I had taken the seventh bottle my health had returned and I began doing my washing and was a well woman. At one time for three weeks I did all the work for eighteen boarders with no signs of my old trouble returning. Many have taken your medicine after seeing what it did for me. I would not take $1000 and be where I was. You have my permission to use my name if it will aid anyone."—Mrs. SUSIE TEMPLETON, Hooper, Nebraska.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

SAGE TEA WILL DARKEN THE HAIR

Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair, with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to old-time, tiresome methods of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

Don't neglect your hair. Get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur today, and notice the difference after a few days' use.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Andrews Drug Co.

That first gray hair!

Oh how disappointed you are to see it.—Gray hairs take away that youthful appearance that you are so anxious to, and should keep,—for beauty and good looks depend so much upon natural colored, thick, glossy and healthy hair. Everyone is attracted to the woman with beautiful hair. Why not have it—get rid of the gray hairs—keep them out altogether by using

Roosevelt Renounces Delegates Elected By Blunder.

MASSACHUSETTS SITUATION

The Eight Delegates-at-Large Elected on Roosevelt Slate Through Blunder of Permitting Nine Names on Taft Slate Have Been Relinquished by the Colonel, Who Does Not Want Them Under the Circumstances.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 2.—Theodore Roosevelt has renounced his claim to the eight delegates-at-large to the Republican national convention who were elected for him in Massachusetts Tuesday. He telegraphed that he did not want them under the circumstances. He sent a statement to this effect to each of the delegates by wire. Those who have been near the colonel on his trips and heard his vehement denunciation of delegates elected for Taft by what he has charged as the grossest fraud, trickery and deceit, were not in great measure surprised that the colonel should shake off entirely any delegates elected for him in an open primary about which there is open doubt.

When Colonel Roosevelt heard that his eight Massachusetts delegates-at-large were in open rebellion against his bull of excommunication and were all agreed that they'd stick, he exclaimed: "I meant every word that I said and shall do everything possible to see that my request is heeded." It is strongly apparent from the colonel's joyousness that the extreme closeness of the Massachusetts vote he considers a clear and decisive victory for the Roosevelt cause. Some one asked the colonel if he was pleased. "Well, how do I look? Do I look discouraged? Do I seem about to become a physical wreck through nervous breakdown?" and the Roosevelt laugh, that shakes in every muscle, rippled over the colonel from slouch hat to riding boots.

"The Roosevelt men feel that the vote in Massachusetts clinches the nomination for the colonel. But he'll fight as hard as ever for the rest of the states where primaries are to be held. He goes to Maryland tonight.

The colonel's renunciation of the Massachusetts delegates adds big strength to his position, his followers contend.

WILL STAND PAT

Roosevelt Delegates Not Inclined to Forego Victory.

Boston, May 2.—Despite the orders issued from Oyster Bay that they vote for President Taft in the Chicago convention, because the real will of the people as expressed in the preferential vote was that Taft delegates be chosen, the eight Roosevelt delegates-at-large chosen in Tuesday's primary are going to stand pat. That is the situation today. Whatever action these delegates take in the matter will be entirely on their own individual responsibility. They are not going to act jointly, although at first they decided to stand together by their pledge for Roosevelt. Later, when they heard of the colonel's demand that they support Taft, they tore up the agreement and each will go it on his own hook.

A general recount of the votes will be asked by General Champlin on the ground that the real choice of the people is not expressed in the returns from the election officers, and that a second inspection of the ballots is necessary to determine the extent of the Seiberlich blunder.

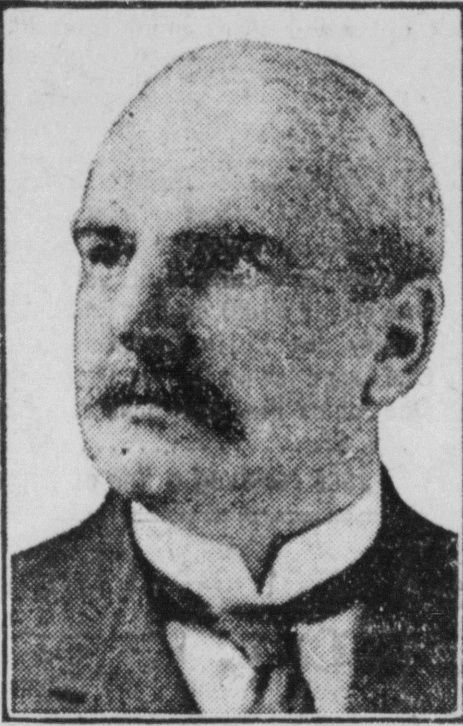

Returns are practically complete. They show that Taft led Roosevelt by 3,973, while Clark led Wilson by 19,021 in the preferential vote of the people for their selections for the Republican and Democratic nominations for president. The vote for Taft was 87,117; for Roosevelt, 83,144; for Clark, 33,491; for Wilson, 14,470. Eight delegates-at-large pledged to Roosevelt were chosen by about 8,300 plurality over the Taft slate. The president carried nine of the congressional districts and Roosevelt carried five.

Sunk by a Turkish Shell.

Smyrna, May 2.—It is now alleged that the steamer Texas, which sunk with considerable loss of life in the Dardanelles, was struck by a shell instead of having hit a submerged mine, as at first reported. This shell, it is claimed, was fired from one of the Turkish forts after the Texas had ignored two blank shots which had been fired as a warning. The Texas had deviated from the proper channel.

John Barrett, director of the Pan American union ordered the flag on the Pan American building placed at half mast in respect to Mr. Dawson.

Mr. Dawson had won a remarkable reputation as a pacifier in troubled Latin America. TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

Gasoline Barge Creates an Inferno of Flame at Cleveland.

Cleveland, May 2.—Five men were burned to death when six successive explosions of a total of 100,000 gallons of gasoline and naphtha in the compartments of a Standard Oil company barge lying in a slip south of the Jefferson street bridge covered everything in the vicinity with the blazing fluid.

Five men were slightly burned and fully a hundred working in the yard of the Great Lakes Towing company's repair plant, together with others working for the company across the slip, had escaped from fiery death approaching the miraculous.

The total property damage, it is estimated, will amount to between $150,000 and $200,000. The explosion transformed the slips, docks, yards, boats and the river itself into a veritable roaring furnace. The fire tugs, aided by three engines, put out the blaze after a three-hour fight.

TEXAS CYCLONE CREATES HAVOC

Many Persons Killed and Much Property Destroyed.

UNION KING'S RANCH WIPED OUT

Among the Valuable Properties Destroyed Was That of J. H. Davis, the Millionaire Union Grower—Wide Area Between Laredo and Green Was Swept by Tornado and Cloudburst, and Death List Will Be Large.

San Antonio, Tex., May 2.—Sweeping over the Rio Grande river country near North Laredo last night, a cyclone and cloudburst killed at least ten persons, injured a score of others and destroyed farm buildings over a wide area. Telegraph and telephone wires were levelled between Laredo and Green, and news of the disaster was late in getting into Laredo and this city.

Among the known killed is Grover Nye, a wealthy planter of North Laredo. Three women and children were killed in the house adjoining Nye's property. The extensive ranch property of J. H. Davis, the millionaire union king of Texas, was completely swept away. The Davis family was not at home, and how many of the employees were killed or injured could not be learned. The tornado from the south of Laredo, on the Mexican side, swept over Laredo and struck North Laredo. The wind was accompanied by a downpour which amounted to a cloudburst in intensity and power. Between North Laredo and Sanchez a large section of the International railway line was washed out. Relief trains with doctors, nurses and wrecking crews were hurried from Laredo and Green, and couriers returning from these trains report the destruction of every plantation building between North Laredo and Sanchez. At Minera, a small mining village, houses were blown down and many injured.

BUILT IN A DAY

These People Wanted a Church and They Went Right at It.

Spartanburg, S. C., May 2.—More than one hundred weary workmen, still clad in their overalls, filed at 8 o'clock last evening into El Bethel Methodist church of this city, which fourteen hours previously did not exist. The edifice, occupying an area about 40 by 75 feet, was erected between the rise and set of the sun. In Waco, Tex., it is said, a church was erected in a single day, but it was not so large a structure as the local church.

The whole countryside turned out to see the spectacle. A band played all day and women served the workers with refreshments. Work was suspended for half an hour at noon for lunch. The finishing touches were put on the church a few minutes before the dedication last night. The building is furnished in the mission style and seats about 800.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE ASTOR FUNERAL

Will Be Marked By Presence of Two Mourning Women.

New York, May 2.—At Rhinebeck-on-the-Hudson, Saturday at 12 o'clock, will occur the funeral of John Jacob Astor. It was said today at his house that his body is expected to arrive at Rhinebeck at 4 o'clock this afternoon. A special train will leave New York for Rhinebeck Saturday morning conveying his relatives and close friends. It will return to New York as soon as the service is over.

Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, first wife of the late Colonel Astor, accompanied by her twelve-year-old daughter Muriel, arrived yesterday from Europe. They were met at the pier by Mrs. Astor's brother, J. R. Barton Willing of Philadelphia, and were driven to the Ritz-Carlton. According to a friend of Mrs. Astor, Mrs. John J. Astor had cabled her offering her use of the Astor residence on Fifth avenue during her stay in New York. However, Mr. Willing had already reserved accommodations at the hotel. The party left the pier in taxis. Mrs. Astor wore black, relieved by a touch of white at the throat, and her daughter was in mourning.

Before leaving the ship Mrs. Astor said her plans were unsettled, but she had come over to be with her son Vincent, who is due in New York today with the body of his father.

NO MORE MONEY FOR WHITECAPS

State Declines Further Aid In Prosecution.

IT IS NOW UP TO THE COUNTY

Outcome of Recent Trials in Monroe County Has Shown That a Jury Can Be Secured to Convict in Whitecap Cases, and the Governor Now Says Additional Prosecutions Must Be Made by County.

Indianapolis, May 2.—On the advice of J. F. Regester, J. E. Henley and Rufus East, attorneys employed by the governor in the recent trials of whitecaps in Monroe county, the governor will not spend any more money from his contingent fund for employing assistant attorneys in the cases yet to come. The attorneys said the public interest in the cases in the county had died down, and that under the present conditions it was doubtful if further convictions could be had. They further said that since the state had shown that prosecution of the whitecaps could be made to result in convictions, it was up to the county council to provide money for additional legal help for the remaining cases.

Governor Marshall spent about $3,000 in employing attorneys to help in the prosecution. Four trials have been held, resulting in one hung jury, two convictions and one acquittal. Three cases are yet to be tried, the governor said.

AN ACCIDENT

This Is What Defense Calls the Killing of Town Marshal.

Washington, Ind., May 2.—In the case of the state against Harry Healy, charged with the murder of Robert Walker, marshal of Montgomery, the prosecution has rested.

Evidence was introduced by the state to show that Walker had gone to a dry beer parlor of the defendant's father, in Montgomery, to investigate a fight that had occurred, and became involved in a fight with the proprietor in which the defendant seized the marshal's revolver and shot him.

The opening statement to the jury in behalf of the defendant was made by Arnold Padgett, who declared that testimony would be introduced to prove that Walker entered the dry beer parlor with drawn revolver and looking for trouble, and that the defendant, when he saw his father and the marshal fighting, attempted to wrest the marshal's revolver from him. During the struggle, he said, the revolver was accidentally exploded, the bullet striking Walker. "The death of Walker was an unfortunate accident and not a murder," he declared.

Gary Saloon Keepers Alarmed.

The county commissioners do not meet until May 6, and rumors that have reached the saloon men are that the Anti-Saloon League intends to enjoin the county commissioners from issuing licenses.

ROUT OF THE PENROSE CROWD WAS COMPLETE

Roosevelt Followers Had Things
All Their Own Way.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 2.—Turning the party machinery over to Contractor William Flinn of Pittsburgh and Editor E. A. Van Valkenburg of Philadelphia, the state Republican convention instructed its delegates-at-large to vote for Roosevelt for president, indorsed the latest policies of the colonel, and named an anti-Penrose state ticket.

The rout of the old organization was complete. The only roll call was on state treasurer, and it showed the Flinn-Van-Valkenburg element to be in control by a vote of 244 to 108. The followers of Senator Penrose made no other effort to stand against the heavy odds and the prearranged program of the Roosevelt followers went through without a hitch.

The convention named former Auditor General Robert K. Young of Tioga for state treasurer. Senator A. W. Powell of Pittsburgh was nominated without opposition for auditor general. For congressmen-at-large the nominees are: A. H. Walters, Johnstown; Fred E. Lewis, Allentown; Arthur R. Rupley, Carlisle, and John M. Morin, Pittsburgh. Henry G. Wasson of Pittsburgh was elected chairman of the state committee, and A. N. Dietrich of Chambersburg, state secretary.

HAVING GOOD TIME

Distinguished Japanese Visitors Warmly Received Over Here.

New York, May 2.—The Japanese delegates to the International Red Cross conference to be held in Washington are tickled over the hospitality that has dined them and winned them and said nice things to them all the way from San Francisco to New York. They said so earnestly at a luncheon given in their honor by the Japan society at the Hotel Astor. Baron T. Ozawa and Dr. Makiyama spoke very positively about the certainty of continued friendship between their country and ours and said that an alliance of friendship if not of treaties virtually exists now.

OUR PROSECUTOR.

The recent shameful conduct of our prosecuting attorney is a disgrace to the good name of Jackson county. The officer of prosecutor is one of the most honorable and exalted gifts which can be received from the voters of a judicial district, and it is naturally presumed that the incumbent will carry himself in a lawful and upright manner, and will do his utmost to perform to the best of his ability the duties entrusted to him. When he fails to do this he has destroyed the confidence of the people.

It is a sad condition when a prosecutor becomes negligent and fails to obey his oath of office, but is far more serious when his actions are such as to call forth the indignation of those who elected him. A prosecuting attorney is not only an officer of the Court, but is also a representative of the State. He is chosen by the people, and should work for their interests. It is he who represents the public in the prosecution of the criminal. It is upon him that the people must rely that the wrong doer is given his just dues. The prosecuting attorney should stand for the best there is in government, and should make his office a power for the good and the right.

When a prosecutor becomes intoxicated he is not only unable to properly attend to the business of his office, but he loses the respect of the unfortunate ones who are prosecuted by him, and the majesty and dignity of law and justice is reduced almost to a travesty. What real shame or disgrace would the average drunkard feel in paying a small fine for intoxication when he could point to the official who prosecuted him and declare that that officer had been guilty of the same offense but a few days previous.

The legislature realizing the seriousness of such a situation enacted a law years ago providing that a public officer can be removed upon the grounds of intoxication. Those legislators, representing the best interests of our commonwealth, knew that no official could partake freely of intoxicants and remain a safe man to care for the people's business.

The citizens of Jackson county are lenient, but regardless of party affiliations, they expect the prosecuting attorney to attend to the affairs of his trust in business like manner, and that his conduct shall become the dignity of his office.

One of the surprises of the Massachusetts primary Tuesday was the heavy vote given Speaker Clark over Woodrow Wilson. It was presumed that the Old Bay State would rally to the support of the New Jersey educator, but the final count would indicate that Wilson is not popular with the voters of that state. Massachusetts is regarded as a literary center, but when it comes to presidential candidate the people evidently prefer a seasoned politician to a scholarly theorist.

And now the pessimist says it will rain before morning.

The remains of Sylvia Belle Moore, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore, were brought here Thursday morning from Logansport. The funeral party were joined at Brownstown by Mrs. Kate Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson and Ed. Murphy. A short funeral service was conducted at the grave by Dr. D. L. Thomas of the First M. E. church.

"That's the Boy for Me."

The boy that's chucked just full of play,
The boy that's chucked just full of play—
That hustles 'round the livelong day,
Oh, that's the boy for me!
What if he does get tired of work?
He's never known to play the "shirk,"
And that's the boy for me.

The boy that makes a dreadful noise
And thunders 'round with other boys,
Oh, that's the boy for me!
He shows the stuff that makes the man
By helping others all he can,
And that's the boy for me.

The boy that has an aim in view,
And strives to know a thing or two,
Oh, that's the boy for me!
What if he is behind the rest?
He always does his very best,
And that's the boy for me.

The boy that's not afraid of blows,
Defends the right where'er he goes,
Oh, that's the boy for me!
What if he has a fault or two?
He'd find the same in me or you,
He's just the boy for me.

Some day that boy'll get down to "biz," He'll show what manhood in him is,
And give the world a great surprise
While every body cheers and cries,
"He's just the man for me!"
He's just the man for me!

The above poem by Dr. Connor should interest the people in the Boys' Friend Campaign in Seymour this week.

EGG SHOW AT PURDUE

ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Remarkable Display of Poultry Department Outgrowth of Demand for Better Product.

Lafayette, Ind., May 2.—The annual Purdue egg show and what is said to be the first distinctly egg show ever held, was opened yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the agricultural experiment station at Purdue University. Several hundred persons attended during the afternoon and were enthusiastic over the attractive display of choice eggs.

The display of eggs is one of the finest ever shown in this state. In the fanciers' class are exhibits from nearly all the prominent producers of Indiana. The exhibits have been divided into three classes, fanciers, commercial and students. In the fanciers' and students' classes the eggs are judged for size, shape, shell texture, condition of shell, uniformity of shell and uniformity of shell color. The eggs in the commercial class are further judged as to quality by candling.

In the fanciers' class U. R. Fishel has donated a large silver cup for the grand sweepstakes prize, the Blue Ribbon poultry farm offers one and the Black Langshan Club offers another for the best black Langshan eggs. In addition to these, the prizes include a number of settings of eggs and medals, besides the first, second and third premium ribbons.

NEW TRIAL REFUSED

Harrison Vick Who Murdered Eugene Huckleberry Has Bond Fixed.

He was sentenced to ten years imprisonment for the crime. His motion for a new trial has been refused and his bond placed at $3,500 presumably pending an appeal to a higher court.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE MACKAY STATUE.

Of all the statues I have seen in this country two have always gripped me—the statue of Abraham Lincoln in Lincoln park, Chicago, and that of the elder Mackay at the University of Nevada.

Almost every one has seen the Lincoln statue or a picture of it. It strikes you as being a replica of the real Lincoln.

The other was erected by Clarence H. Mackay as a tribute to his father, the founder of the Mackay fortune.

There it stands, the semblance of a young man of sturdy bearing. He wears a flannel shirt, which is open at the neck. Corduroy trousers are stuffed into cowhide boots. On the head is a slouch hat. A miner's pick is clinched in the right hand.

That is the real Mackay. Afterward he became a millionaire, and the statue would have shown a smooth groomed, conventional figure in frock coat and a high hat.

But Mackay was a man before he was a millionaire.

And the rugged figure of the miner stands an abiding index of the dignity of labor.

The mudsills of our republic were laid by men of toil. They laboriously blazed the way to our present day prosperity. And of these heroes of the early faith was the bronzed miner, who, like Moses, struck the flinty rock and forced the flow of golden waters.

We must honor these men.

Let us have a care lest in our day of prosperous pride we shall come to look with condescension upon the man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow and the labor of his hands.

Therefore the value of reminders like this statue of the man of the pick and the sleighing cradle.

We must impress the truth that the man upon whose garments there is the stain of the soil, caught in honest effort of daily toil, wears a uniform as patriotic as the uniform of the harness soldier; that the scars upon the hands of labor are as honorable as the scars received in battle.

Hence the significance of the Lincoln and the Mackay statues. They are statues of men, not as they were finally made, but as in the making.

Let our new American art fashion the memorials of our great men as men who labored at a task—

Lest we forget whence we sprung.

Practical Fashions

THE BRIGHT SIDE.

A gentleman remarked to us that the true theory of life was to get on the admiration side, and not on the cynical and obsequious side of life. We believe that is sensible. "Look on the bright side and if there is no bright side burnish up the dark side," is a little quotation that we put in our notebook more than a score of years ago. It is good gospel. It is the doctrine of hope, says the Ohio State Journal. Grumbling at everything is unchristian. It will condemn a man as sure as profanity or lying. The Bible says: "But let all those that put their trust in thee, rejoice." There is philosophy for this. A person cannot do any good in a bad spirit. If one hates a man he cannot reform him. Every good thing that a man does pulls some evil up by the roots. Good deeds grow by smiles as the wheat grows by the sunshine. Boost the good and the bad will have a poor chance. It is right to curb the evil. If one does not waste all his strength at it, so that he will have to sit down and lose heart. There is no final defeat in an honest, sincere effort, and that is the doctrine of the upward look and the bright side of life.

George Wehler, director of physical education at the University of Wisconsin, has instituted rest classes for fidgety girls whose nervous systems "go to pieces" under the fatigue following undue exertion. In a report to the United States Bureau of Education he says: We do not go on the theory that the gymnasium is good for every one, and, therefore, every one must take gymnastics. The purpose of these classes in rest is to teach girls who are restless from the performance of tasks that ought not to produce fatigue how to acquire control over their own nervous systems. Putting every one—girls as well as boys—through a stiff regimen of gymnasium work has had bad results in many instances, and is a thing to be avoided. If the director of physical culture in the University of Wisconsin makes allowance for constitutional differences students not built to endure overstrain will have reason to thank the good fortune which made him arbiter of their physical destinies.

Painting and sculpture are conducive to long life. Yet music kills men young. Schubert, with all his wealth of song, died at 31; Mozart, who danced and laughed his melodies into being, died at 35, the same age as Bellini; Bizet, the composer of "Carmen," died, like Purcell, at 37; Mendelssohn survived to 38; Chopin, who loved life so well, had done with it at 39, while Weber expired at the age of 40 and Schuman at 46. But Verdi lived and flourished as a nonagenarian.

A woman in a Massachusetts town left $500 to encourage splinterhood. From all accounts such encouragement is entirely unnecessary in the cause of single blessedness there, nor is the inducement sufficient to make any normal woman refuse a good offer of marriage in order to enjoy the benefits of the legacy.

Baby's Clothes Must be Soft and Snowy White

The greatest joy of the careful, painstaking and proud mother is to see her baby's clothes soft and clean and snowy white.

Ordinary soap often leaves them yellow or streaky and lacking that much to be desired freshness and sweetness. Then again there is always that "bugbear" of dainty clothes being rotted and burned out by strong chemicals and "dirt starters." All these difficulties are eliminated by the use of Registration Law.

The registration law is attracting considerable attention this year and is published below in a condensed form.

A voter is a male citizen who will be 21 years of age or over on day of election who is native born or naturalized, and has legal residence in his precinct, county and state. The election this year occurs on Tuesday, Nov. 5th, so a person born on Nov. 6th 21 years previous is a legal voter.

No man can vote without having previously registered.

A voter must be present in person to register.

A voter registers but once in precinct where he votes.

If a voter should change voting places, state, county, township or precinct he must register in one to which he moves and if previously registered, bring a certificate of such previous registry from County Auditor under signature and seal.

The Registration board will hold three sessions each year (in which elections occur) in each precinct in May, September and October. The first registration this year will be on Thursday, May 9th, and may last for three days if found necessary to accommodate the voters. The other two will be on Friday, September 6th, and Monday, October 7th, for only one day each. The hours for registering are 5 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m. on registration days.

Registration blanks will be left at different places in each precinct that they may be obtained previous to day of registrations. A supply will also be on hands at the place of registration on days for registering.

A person who cannot write in English can sign in their own language, but must have signature of some one in English as attesting witness.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Mr. and Mrs. Little Jimmie.

Mrs. Sammy Whitcomb had longed for the sweet privilege of squaring matters with Mrs. Jimmie Wellington. Sneers and back-biting, shrugs and shudders of contempt were poor compensation for the ever-vivid fact that Mrs. Wellington had proved attractive to her Sammy while Mrs. Wellington's Jimmie never looked at Mrs. Whitcomb. Or if he did, his eyes had been so blurred that he had seen two of her—and avoided both.

Yesterday she had overheard Jimmie vow sobriety. Today his shining morning face showed that he had kept his word. She could hardly wait to begin the flirtation which, she trusted, would render Mrs. Wellington helplessly furious for six long Reno months.

The Divorce Drummer interposed and held Jimmie prisoner for a time, but as soon as Mr. Baumann released him, Mrs. Whitcomb apprehended him. With a smile that beckoned and with eyes that went out like far-cast fishhooks, she drew Leviathan into her net.

She reeled him in and he plounded in the seat opposite. What she took for bashfulness was reluctance. To add the last charm to her success, Mrs. Wellington arrived to see it. Mrs. Whitcomb saw the lonely Ashton rise and offer her the seat facing him. Mrs. Wellington took it and sat down with the back of her head so close to the back of Mr. Wellington's head that the feather in her hat tickled his neck.

Jimmie Wellington had seen his wife pass by. To his sober eyes she was a fine sight as she moved up the aisle. In his alcohol-embancipated mind the keen sense of wrong endured that had driven him forth to Reno began to lose its edge. His own soul appealed from Jimmie drunk to Jimmie sober. The appellate judge began to reverse the lower court's decision, point by point.

He felt a sudden recrudescence of jealousy as he heard Ashton's voice unctuously, flirtatiously offering his wife hospitality. He wanted to trounce Ashton. But what right had he to defend from gallantry the woman he was about to forswear before the world? Jimmie's soul was in turmoil, and Mrs. Whitcomb's pretty face and alluring smile only annoyed him.

She had made several gracious speeches before he quite comprehended any of them. Then he realized that she was saying, "I'm so glad you're going to stop at Reno, Mr. Wellington."

"Thank you. So am I," he mumbled, trying to look interested and wishing that his wife's plume would not tickle his neck.

Mrs. Whitcomb went on, leaning closer: "We two poor mistreated wretches must try to console one another, mustn't we?"

"Yes,—yes,—we must," Wellington nodded, with a sickly cheer.

Mrs. Whitcomb leaned a little closer. "Do you know that I feel almost related to you, Mr. Wellington?" "Related?" he echoed, "you?—to me? How?"

"My husband knew your wife so well."

Somehow a wave of jealous rage surged over him, and he growled: "Your husband is a scoundrel."

Mrs. Whitcomb's smile turned to vinegar: "Oh, I can't permit you to slander the poor boy behind his back. It was all your wife's fault."

Wellington amazed himself by his own bravery when he heard himself volleying back: "And I can't permit you to slander my wife behind her back. It was all your husband's fault."

Mrs. Jimmie overheard this behind her back, and it strangely thrilled her. She ignored Ashton's existence and listened for Mrs. Whitcomb's next retort. It consisted of a simple, icy drawl: "I think I'll go to breakfast."

She seemed to pick up Ashton with her eyes as she glided by, for, finding himself unnoticed, he rose with a careless: "I think I'll go to breakfast," and followed Mrs. Whitcomb. The Wellingtons sat dos-a-dos for some exciting seconds, and then on a sudden impulse, Mrs. Jimmie rose, knelt in the seat and spoke across the back of it:

"It was very nice of you to defend me, Jimmie—er—James."

Wellington almost dislocated several joints in rising quickly and whirling round at the cordiality of her tone. But his smile vanished at her last word. He protested, feebly: "James sounds so like a—a butler. Can't you call me Little Jimmie again?"

Mrs. Wellington smiled indulgently: "Well, since it's the last time. Good-bye, Little Jimmie." And she put out her hand. He seized it hungrily and clung to it: "Good-bye?—aren't you getting off at Reno?"

"Yes, but—"

"So am I—Lucetta."

"But we can't afford to be seen together."

Still holding her hand, he temporized: "We've got to stay married for six months at least—while we establish a residence. Couldn't we—er—couldn't we establish a residence—er—together?"

Mrs. Wellington's eyes grew a little sad, as she answered: "It would be too lonesome waiting for you to roll home."

Jimmie stared at her. He felt the regret in her voice and took strange courage from it. He hauled from his pocket his huge flask, and said quickly: "Well, if you're jealous of this, I'll promise to cork it up forever."

She shook her head skeptically: "You couldn't."

"Just to prove it," he said, "I'll chuck it out of the window." He flung up the sash and made ready to hurl his enemy into the flying landscape.

"Bravo!" cried Mrs. Wellington.

But even as his hand was about to let go, he tightened his clutch again, and pondered: "It seems a shame to waste it."

"I thought so," said Mrs. Jimmie, drooping perceptibly. Her husband began to feel that, after all, she cared what became of him.

"I'll tell you," he said, "I'll give it to old Doc Temple. He takes his straight."

He turned towards the seat where the clergyman and his wife were sitting, oblivious of the drama of reconciliation playing so close at hand. Little Jimmie paused, caressed the flask, and kissed it. "Good-bye, old playmate!" Then, tossing his head with bravado, he reached out and touched the clergyman's shoulder. Dr. Temple turned and rose with a questioning look. Wellington put the flask in his hand and chuckled: "Merry Christmas!"

"But, my good-man—" the preacher objected, finding in his hand a donation about as welcome and as wieldy as a strange baby. Wellington winked: "It may come in handy for—your patients."

And now, struck with a sudden idea, Mrs. Wellington spoke: "Oh, Mrs. Temple."

"Yes, my dear," said the little old lady, rising. Mrs. Wellington placed in her hand a small portfolio and laughed: "Happy New Year!"

Mrs. Temple stared at her gift and gasped: "Great heavens! Your cigars!"

"They'll be such a consolation," Mrs. Wellington explained, "while the doctor is out with his patients."

Dr. Temple and Mrs. Temple looked at each other in dismay, then at the flask and the cigars, then at the Wellingtons, then they stammered: "Thank you so much," and sank back.

Wellington stared at his wife: "Lucetta, are you sincere?"

"Jimmie, I promise you I'll never smoke another cigar."

"My love!" he cried, and seized her hand. "You know I always said you were a queen among women, Lucetta."

She beamed back at him: "And you always were the prince of good fellows, Jimmie." Then she almost blushed as she murmured, almost shyly: "May I pour your coffee for you again this morning?"

"For life," he whispered, and they moved up the aisle, arm in arm, bumping from seat to seat and not knowing it.

When Mrs. Whitcomb, seated in the dining-car, saw Mrs. Little Jimmie pour Mr. Little Jimmie's coffee, she choked on hers. She vowed that she would not permit those odious Wellingtons to make fools of her and her Sammy. She resolved to telegraph Sammy that she had changed her mind about divorcing him, and order him to take the first train west and meet her half-way on her journey home.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

A Duel for a Bracelet.

All this while Marjorie and Mallory had sat watching, as kingfishers shadow a pool, the door where-through the girl with the bracelet must pass on her way to breakfast.

"She's taking forever with her toilet," sniffed Marjorie. "Probably trying to make a special impression on you."

"She's wasting her time," said Mallory. "But what if she brings her mother along? No, I guess her mother is too fat to get there and back."

"If her mother comes," Marjorie decided, "I'll hold her while you take the bracelet away from the—the—from that creature. Quick, here she comes now! Be brave!"

Mallory wore an aspect of arrant cowardice: "Er—ab—I—I—"

"You just grab her!" Marjorie explained. Then they relapsed into attitudes of impatient attention. Kathleen floated in and, seeing Mallory, she greeted him with radiant warmth: "Good morning!" and then, catching sight of Marjorie, gave her a "Good morning!" coated with ice.

She flounced past and Mallory sat inert, till Marjorie gave him a ferocious pinch, whereupon he leaped to his feet:

"Oh, Miss—er—Miss Kathleen," Kathleen whirled round with a most hospitable smile. "May I have a word with you?"

"Of course you can, my dear boy," Marjorie winced at this and writhed at what followed: "Shan't we take breakfast together?"

Mallory stuttered: "I—I—no, thank you—I've had breakfast."

Kathleen froze up again as she snapped: "With that—train-acquaintance, I suppose."

"Oh, no," Mallory amended, "I mean I haven't had breakfast."

But Kathleen scowled with a jealousy of her own: "You seem to be getting along famously for mere train-acquaintances."

"Oh, that's all we are, and hardly that," Mallory hastened to say with too much truth. "Sit down here a moment, won't you?"

"No, no, I haven't time," she said, and sat down. "Mamma will be waiting for me. You haven't been in to see her yet?"

"No, you see—"

"She cried all night."

"For me?"

"No, for papa. He's such a good traveler—and he had such a good start. She really kept the whole car awake."

"Too bad," Mallory condoled, perfunctorily, then with sudden eagerness, and a trial at indifference: "I see you have that bracelet still."

"Of course, you dear fellow. I wouldn't be parted from it for worlds."

Marjorie gnashed her teeth, but Kathleen could not hear that. She gushed on: "And now we have met again! It looks like Fate, doesn't it?"

"It certainly does," Mallory assented, bitterly; then again, with zest: "Let me see that old bracelet, will you?"

He tried to lay hold of it, but Kathleen giggled cooly: "It's just an excuse to hold my hand." She swung her arm over the back of the seat coquettishly, and Marjorie made a desperate lunge at it, but missed, since Kathleen, finding that Mallory did not pursue the fugitive hand, brought it back at once and yielded it up:

"There—be careful, someone might look."

Mallory took her by the wrist in a gingerly manner, and said, "So that's the bracelet? Take it off, won't you?"

"Never!—it's wished on," Kathleen protested, sentimentally. "Don't you remember that evening in the moonlight?"

Mallory caught Marjorie's accusing eye and lost his head. He made a ferocious effort to snatch the bracelet off. When this onset failed, he had recourse to entreaty: "Just slip it off." Kathleen shook her head tantalizingly. Mallory urged more strenuously: "Please let me see it."

Kathleen shook her head with sophistication: "You'd never give it back. You'd pass it along to that—train-acquaintance."

"How can you think such a thing?" Mallory demurred, and once more made his appeal: "Please, please, slip it off."

"What on earth makes you so anxious?" Kathleen demanded, with sudden suspicion. Mallory was stumped, till an inspiration came to him: "I'd like to—to get you a nicer one. 'That one isn't good enough for you.'"

Here was an argument that Kathleen could appreciate. "Oh, how sweet of you, Harry," she gurgled, and had the bracelet down to her knuckles, when a sudden instinct checked her: "When you bring the other, you can have this."

She pushed the circlet back, and Mallory's hopes sank at the gesture. He grew frantic at being eternally frustrated in his plans. He caught Kathleen's arm and, while his words pleaded, his hands tugged: "Please—please let me take it—for the measure—"

Kathleen read the determination in his fierce eye, and she struggled furiously: "Why, Richard—Chauncey!—er—Billy! I'm amazed at you! Let go or I'll scream!"

She rose and, twisting her arm from his grasp, confronted him with bewildered anger. Mallory cast toward Marjorie a look of surrender and despair. Marjorie laid her hand on her throat and in pantomime suggested that Mallory should throttle Kathleen, as he had promised.

But Mallory was incapable of further violence; and when Kathleen, with all her coquetry, bent down and murmured: "You are a very naughty boy, but come to breakfast and we'll talk it over," he was so added that he answered: "Thanks, but I never eat breakfast."

CHAPTER XXXVII.

Down Brakes!

Just as Kathleen flung her head in baffled vexation, and Mallory started to slink back to Marjorie, with another defeat, there came an abrupt shock as if that gigantic child to whom our railroad trains are toys, had reached down and laid violent hold on the Trans-American in full career.

Its smooth, swift flight became suddenly such a spasm of jars, shivers and thuds that Mallory cried: "We're off the track!"

He was sent flopping down the aisle like a bolster hurled through the car. He brought up with a sickening slam across the seat into which Marjorie had been jounced back with a breath-taking slam. And then Kathleen came flying backwards and landed in a heap on both of them.

Several of the other passengers were just returning from breakfast and they were shot and scattered all over the car as if a great chain of human beads had burst.

Women screamed, men yelled, and then while they were still struggling against the seats and one another, the train came to a halt.

"Thank God, we stopped in time!" Mallory gasped, as he tried to disengage himself and Marjorie from Kathleen.

The passengers began to regain their courage with their equilibrium. Little Jimmie Wellington had flown the whole length of the car, clinging to his wife as if she were Francesca da Rimini, and he Paolo, flitting through Inferno. The flight ended at the stateroom door with such a thump that Mrs. Fosdick was sure a detective had come for her at last, and with a battering ram.

But when Jimmie got back breath enough to talk, he remembered the train-stopping excitement of the day before and called out:

"Has Mrs. Mallory lost that pup again?"

Everybody laughed uproariously at this. People will laugh at anything or nothing when they have been frightened almost to death and suddenly relieved of anxiety.

Everybody was cracking a joke at Marjorie's expense. Everybody felt a good-natured grudge against her for being such a mystery. The car was ringing with hilarity, when the porter came stumbling in and paused at the door, with eyes all white, hands waving frantically, and lips flapping like flannel, in a vain effort to speak.

The passengers stopped laughing at Marjorie, to laugh at the porter. Ashton sang out:

"What's the matter with you, porter? Are you trying to crow?"

Everybody roared at this, till the porter finally managed to articulate: "T-t-t-train rob-rob-robbers!"

Silence shut down as if the whole crowd had been smitten with paralysis. From somewhere outside and ahead came a pop-popping as of firecrackers. Everybody thought, "Revolvers!" The reports were mingled with barbaric yells that turned the marrow in every bone to snow.

These regions are full of historic terror. All along the Nevada route the conductor, the brakemen and old travelers had pointed out scene after scene where the Indians had slaked the thirst of the arid land with white man's blood. Ashton, who had traveled this way many times, had made himself fascinatingly horrifying the evening before and ruined several breakfasts that morning in the dining-car, by regaling the passengers with stories of pioneer ordeals, men and women massacred in burning wagons, or dragged away to fiendish cruelty and obscene torture, staked out supine on burning wastes with eyelids cut off, bound down within reach of rattlesnakes, subjected to every misery that human devilry could devise.

Ashton had brought his fellow passengers to a state of ecstatic excitability, and, like many a recounter of burglar stories at night, had tuned his own nerves to high tension.

The violent stopping of the train, the heart-shaking yells and shots outside, found the passengers already apt to respond without delay to the appeals of fright. After the first hush of dread, came the reaction to panic.

Each passenger showed his own panic in his own way. Ashton whirled round and round, like a horse with the blind staggers, then bolted down the aisle, knocking aside men and women. He climbed on a seat, pulled down an upper berth, and scrambling into it, tried to shut it on himself.

Mrs. Whitcomb was so frightened that she assailed Ashton with fury and seizing his feet, dragged him back into the aisle, and beat him with her fists, demanding that he protect her and save her for Sammy's sake.

Mrs. Fosdick, rushing out of her stateroom and not finding her luscious-eyed husband, laid hold of Jimmie Wellington and ordered him to go to the rescue of her spouse. Mrs. Wellington tore her hands loose, crying: "Let him go, husband. He has a wife of his own to defend."

Jimie was trying to pour out dying messages, and only sputtering, for getting that he had put his watch in his mouth to hide it, though its chain was still attached to his waistcoat.

Anne Gattie, who had read much about Chinese atrocities to missionaries, gave herself up to death, yet rejoiced greatly that she had provided a timely man to lean on and should not have to enter Paradise a spinster, providing she could manage to convert Ira in the next few seconds, before it was everlasting too late. She was begging her first heathen to join her in a gospel hymn. But Ira was roaring curses like a pirate captain in a hurricane, and swearing that the villains should not rob him of his bride.

Mrs. Temple wrung her twitching hands and tried to drag her husband to his knees, crying:

"Oh, Walter, Walter, won't you please say a prayer?—a good strong prayer?"

But the preacher was so confused that he answered: "What's the use of prayer in an emergency like this?"

"Walter!" she shrieked.

"I'm on my va-vacation, you know," he stammered.

Marjorie was trying at the same time to compel Mallory to crawl under a seat and to find a place to hide Snoozleums, whom she was warning not to say a word. Snoozleums, understanding only that his mistress was in some distress, refused to stay in his basket and kept offering his services and his attentions.

Suddenly Marjorie realized that Kathleen was trying to faint in Mallory's arms, and forgot everything else in a determined effort to prevent her.

After the first blood-sweat of abject fright had begun to cool, the passengers came to realize that the invaders were not after lives, but loot. Then came a panic of miserly effort to conceal treasure.

Kathleen, finding herself banished from Mallory's protection, ran to Mrs. Whitcomb, who had given Ashton up as a hopeless task.

"What shall we do, oh, what, oh what shall we do, dear Mrs. Wellington?" she cried.

"Don't you dare call me Mrs. Wellington!" Mrs. Whitcomb screamed; then she began to flutter. "But we'd better hide what we can. I hope the rah-rah-robbers are gentlemen."

She pushed a diamond locket containing a small portrait of Sammy into her back hair, leaving part of the chain dangling. Then she tried to stuff a large handbag into her stocking.

Mrs. Fosdick found her husband at last, for he made a wild dash to her side, embraced her, called her his wife and defied all the powers of Nevada to tear them apart. He had a brilliant idea. In order to save his fat wallet from capture, he tossed it through an open window. It fell at the feet of one of the robbers as he ran along the side of the car, shooting at such heads as were put out of windows. He picked it up and dropped it into the feed-bag he had swung at his side. Then running on, he clambered over the brass rail of the observation platform and entered the rear of the train, as his confederate, driving the conductor ahead of him, forged his way aft from the front, while a third masquerader aligned the engineer, the fireman, the brakeman and the baggagemen.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad owns 527 acres of land in Brown township, Vinton county, Ohio, which it is planning to operate as a demonstration farm, the land being typical of the section in which it is located. The land is rough and hilly, perhaps one-third of it on top of the hills being level enough for cultivation. However, the soil is very poor, being of a sand-stone and shale origin and lacking in organic matter. All the good timber has been cleared off and the hillsides are covered with a growth of scrubby trees. In order to determine the best method of handling this land, H. A. Trendley, industrial agent of the B. & O., has secured the services of three instructors from the college of Agriculture Ohio State University, to look it over and offer suggestions.

Authentic, Indubitable Truth.
No mere man ever recognized a woman by the style of her dress. How a woman dresses a man does not remember five minutes; but how she looks he does.—Ohio State Journal.

Noiseless Furniture.
Irritating noises can be avoided by taking some old felt hats, cutting out from these disks about the size of a quarter and securely fastening them to the bottoms of the legs of all chairs, tables and other movable articles not provided with casters. This also prevents the scratching of polished floors.

Undecipherable.
"Do you know anything about Euripides?" asked the erudite relative. "A little," replied the young man with nerve. "And what are your impressions?" "Well, what I have seen of his stuff convinces me that he wrote a mighty poor hand."

Wifely Ideal Too High.

OFFICIALS of C. T. H. & S-E. AND B. & O. S-W. IN THE CITY

Officers in Special Cars Make Inspection Trip Over The Old Walsh Properties.

The officials of the Chicago, Terre Haute & Southeastern and several of the officers of the B. & O. S-W. made an inspection trip over the former road today and were in this city for a short time. The special train carried three coaches, a B. & O. S-W. car, the special car of M. J. Carpenter, president of the C. T. H. & S-E., and a second special officers' car. Among the officials of the C. T. H. & S-E. besides President Carpenter who accompanied the party were: M. W. Wells, general superintendent, J. T. Averitt, general freight agent, W. F. Peter, general counsel, and E. H. Pfafflin, chief engineer.

While no information was given out here as to the object of the trip with the B. & O. S-W. officials, it is thought that it was only for an inspection of the property and to adjust certain questions relative to tonnage and freight.

FRANTIC SEARCH FOR WOOD

Superstitious Customer in Modern Barber Shop Had Hard Time to Find the Object Desired.

"Well, how's the neuralgia?" queried the barber, sympathetically, as he poised the razor over Thompson's lathered face in a tonsorial emporium. "Haven't had any since last"—and then the barber was dumfounded to see his customer rap hard on the arm of the chair. He was further astonished when Thompson sat up, jumped to the floor and ran to the marble wash bowl, where another customer was in process of being shampooed.

Thompson reached under the stool on which the customer was sitting, and rapped it. Then, with a look of dismay he turned wildly and made a sprint to the cigar counter at the far end of the room. There he rapped his knuckles on the wooden frame, while barbers and customers, in various stages of barbering and hair cutting, stopped and stared.

"It's all right," he grinned from behind his coat of lather. "Had to touch wood, you know, after making that statement about not having had neuralgia. I sure don't want it again."

"You surely don't have much wood in these places," he observed as the barber somewhat gingerly began the shaving operation anew. "This chair is made of enamel, glass, nickel and leather, that stool seat is made of some kind of leatherette composition, and I do believe the only thing in your shop made of wood is that cigar counter frame."

Then Thompson's barber and the other barbers went on shaving.

A New Era in Motion Pictures.
The day when the theatrical and operatic managers can belittle the vogue of the cinematograph and the phonograph is of the past. Today they look askance at each other, and instead of regarding the artificial theater with contempt they are now seeking in every way they can to affiliate themselves with the gold-bearing industry of the silent drama. These gentlemen have seen the tremendous public response to the photo play to such an extent that although one-third of New York's theatres have reverted to the camera man, those play houses still surviving the encroachment are gradually being made available to the newer industry. —Robert Grau in the May Popular Mechanics Magazine.
